Previously he had been to the House of Refuge and the jail. The Court then sentenced him to the penitentiary for the maximum period of 30 years, the sentence being under Act of 1909, fixing such a term where there has been previous imprisonments.

In judgment of Frank Hartman vs. Oliver J. Fritz and P. C. Sowers, a rule was awarded on plaintiff on application of P. C. Sowers to show cause why judgment should not be opened as to security, P. C. Sowers, and he let into a defense, rule returnable Oct. 17.

In the case of Charles B. Stoner and Catharine Stoner vs. The Hanover and McSherrystown Water Company, the appeal from the award of damages fixed for trial at the November court, the court made an order for a special jury to be struck to view the premises.

George Meckley was discharged as executor of will of Rachel Jacoby late of Butler township.

An order was made for the payment to Sarah Kesseling of Hanover, of $45 for the maintenance and support of John C. Easley, a minor son of Rosa Sell, dec'd.

The case of Fred W. Logan vs. Christian Sprengle, fixed for argument was continued until Friday, when it will be argued on both sides by York counsel. The latter could not be present on account of court in York on Monday.

The rule to show cause why the real estate of Charles Clapsaddle, confined in the Harrisburg Asylum, should not be sold, was made absolute and real estate will now be sold.

The sale of real estate made by P. C. Smith, administrator of Sidney Ann Chronister, deceased, to Hiram Bream for $1588.50 was confirmed.

Widows' lists under the $300 law were approved in the estate of Pius J. Noel, late of New Oxford, and in the estate of David Rohrbach, late of Mt. Joy township, unless exceptions are filed within 30 days.

In the estate of Harry A. Cook, the real estate of deceased was appraised at $599 and the same was appraised and set aside to the widow, Martha A. Cook, under the exemption law subject to the payment of judgment of $300 of Isaac E. Routsong.

Private sale was awarded of the undivided seven-eighths interest in real estate of Thaddeus S. Stultz, deceased, to Robert C. Mickley for $200.

George W. Topper, executor of Sarah Ann Arentz, deceased, was given authority to make a deed to Sallie E. Topper, for certain land mentioned in the will.

All the executors and administrator accounts as advertised were confirmed.

Court adjourned until October 17.

Like Finding Money.

L. M. Buehler, the popular druggist is making an offer that is just like finding money for he is selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure. It is only recently, through solicitation of Druggist L. M. Buehler that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents. He urged the proprietors to allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles.

COLLEGE OPENING EXERCISES

THREE G's—GRANVILLE AND GREATER GETTYSBURG.

Student Government Inaugurated and the Athletic Council Reorganized.

The seventy-ninth year of Gettysburg College was opened on last Thursday morning with a most auspicious meeting in Brua Chapel. The new president, William Anthony Granville, Ph.D., who comes here from the faculty of Yale University, conducted the opening exercises. Rev. E. E. Neudewitz of class of 1893, read the Scriptures, and Dr. Harvey W. McKnight offered prayer and the singing was led by the Glee Club.

Before the exercises began Dr. Granville was given a rousing welcome by class yells and the chapel was packed with students and alumni. Dr. Granville first spoke feelingly of the kind welcome he had received from every one and then in turn welcomed the old and new students. He then took up the matter of announcements and among other things said that he heartily approved of the new scheme of government by the student body. That the plans had been carefully elaborated. The good name of the college was thus placed on each individual student and this responsibility was accompanied by the duty of each to maintain that good name. The Student Council of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores and one freshman were asked to organize at once and later in day did organize.

Announcement was also made of a reorganization of athletics with an athletic council of Prof. Wentz from the faculty, J. W. Wimer from the senior class, Mark Eckert from alumni, with Coach Vail and Rev. Rhinard, Sec. of Y. M. C. A. This council will have charge of all athletics for the year.

This opening meeting gave evidence to a marked enthusiasm. The students have caught the new spirit and have given name to it, the "Three G's," Granville and Greater Gettysburg. There has been an increase in the various college classes and the Freshman class numbers about 80.

The college spirit between the Freshman and Sophomore classes kept things on the move last week. Thursday night the Freshmen put up posters over the town. The same night there was a scrap and one man received a cut in the face, and ended in the annual tug of war and tie-up on Nixon Field on Saturday afternoon, in both events the Sophomores came off victors. In the tug of war the representatives of the Sophomore class had no difficulty in pulling the Freshmen over the line and winning the decision.

About 125 men were in the tie-up, each side trying to tie up their opponents hand and foot with ropes and the final tally gave to the Sophomores 61 and Freshmen 42 and the latter can not remove the yellow buttons from their caps.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—A copper kettle, barrel size, suitable for apple butter boiling. BERNARDINA CORRIGAN, McSherrystown, Pa.

Two Fires.

On last Wednesday evening the outbuilding at home of Aaron Wolf at the edge of Abbottstown, was discovered to be on fire. The family had been boiling apple butter and it is supposed the fire came in contact with wood work through some defect of chimney. The citizens of Abbottstown formed a bucket brigade and did effective work to prevent any spread of the flames. The loss to the building is estimated at $200.

The large bank barn on farm of Miss Lizzie Forry in Union township, tenanted by John Mickley was totally destroyed on last Saturday night, with corn crib, big stable, buggy house, two implement sheds, 1600 bushels of wheat, 100 tons of hay, all this season's straw, farming implements. The only live stock lost were three fat hogs and a calf. The tenant had attended St. Luke's picnic during the day and on returning retired about 9 o'clock. An hour later he was awakened and saw flames issuing through the roof at the rear of the barn. With the assistance of several neighbors he was able to remove his stock and some of the machinery. The loss will aggregate over $6000 and is partly covered by insurance in the Littlestown Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Meeting of Town Council.

The Town Council held a special meeting on last Friday evening, to consider the trolley franchise and other matters.

The amendment to the trolley franchise asked for by Mr. Keith at the last meeting was considered. The former ordinance had given the franchise to Wm. H. Lanus in trust for a trolley corporation to be formed and the amendment gave the franchise to Wm. H. Lanus in trust as a branch of the Hanover and McSherrystown railway or in any other way, so that in whatever way it would be decided to build it could be done, either as a new and independent company or as a branch, but according to purposes indicated, it will be built as a branch and so avoid some of the technicalities that would tend to delay operations. It is expected that work will begin at once on line near Conowago Chapel and be pushed toward New Oxford and Gettysburg, so as to reach this place within the limit of time provided in the original ordinance, Sept. 1, 1911. Amendment will be found in another column.

Councilman Butt reported that the East Middle St. alleys proposition had not yet reached an amicable adjustment, that the only propositions so far presented was one of Martin Winter to give twelve feet for an alley to begin two feet east of the Buehler line or that viewers be put on six feet of his land and six feet of the land belonging to Danner Buehler. After brief discussion the committee was continued.

The Council received a communication from Frank Shade complaining that the policeman neglected their duties in not preventing the running of vehicles, wagons and push carts on the pavements. This developed much criticism from Councilmen about the police, that information had not been laid against those caught in crap game, that policemen gave no attention to violations of speed limit by automobiles and that they were not using the clock registry system recently installed. A motion was finally made and carried that the policemen be instructed to apprehend all violators of the speed limit for automobiles within the borough limits, and upon failure to observe these directions their appointments as police be revoked and others appointed in their place.

The committee appointed on matter of ordaining all streets and alleys to the borough limits divided the town into four sections and recommended extensions, and attention was called to fact that purchases of land by government would not allow the entire extension of streets and alleys. A motion carried that the committee be instructed to plot and ordain the streets and alleys south of West Middle street.

The Light Committee reported that the Tungsten lamps over town had been inspected and many were not in condition and some not burning. It was stated that Mr. Turner had said lamps had been ordered but not yet arrived. A motion carried instructing the borough attorney to look into the matter of the bond given by the Gettysburg Lighting Company in view of their alleged negligence in carrying out the light contract.

A crossing was ordered to be put down on Steinwehr avenue between the Patterson and Horner properties. A fire plug was ordered to be placed on York Street about midway between the last fire plug and borough limits.

You Should Ask the Conductor.

When you visit a city and don't know your way, you should "ask a policeman" you'll hear people say; but in getting around if you ride on a car, 'twould be better to ask the conductor by far. Of course a brave officer onto his job, can do you a kindness, or handle a mob; and he knows all the stores where Chi-Namei is sold, just ask him, you'll find while he's brave, he's not "bold." All varnishes look alike when new but they do not wear alike when old. No one can tell by looking at them which will wear longest. It depends upon what they are made of. We carry and recommend Chi-Namei varnishes because they are made of the best material that makes varnish. All colors, all size pkgs. at our store. Sold by J. H. Colthlower.

THE CROSSING OF THE BAR

SUDDEN DEATH COMES TO MRS. WILLIAM BUSHMAN.

Distressing Death of Little Mary Hersh. Others Who have Gone Across the Bar During the Week.

Mrs. ANNIE BUSHMAN, wife of Wm. Bushman, living on Baltimore pike just south of this town, died very suddenly on Tuesday morning, Sept. 20, about 6 o'clock. Mrs. Bushman had been in bad health several years ago but had recovered. She became ill again about two weeks ago and the heart failure resulting in her death was a great shock to her many friends in this community. She leaves besides her husband, four sons and three daughters, Samuel Bushman, an attorney at Gallop, New Mexico, Maurice, attending college in Baltimore, Leo, and Lewis at home. Mrs. Ruth Brennan of Baltimore, Edith, now Sister Mary Vincent, of Jesus, at the Corpus Christi Monastery, Hunt's Point, New York, and Blanche at home. The maiden name of Mrs. Bushman was Miss Annie Storm, one of a family of fourteen, four of whom survive. Mrs. John Stock of Breckenridge street, Gettysburg, Mrs. Fred Myers and Lewis Storm of McSherrystown, and Cletus Storm of Irishtown.

MARY HERSH, the sweet little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hersh, fell asleep on Monday evening, a victim to that scourge, diphtheria. She had passed the first stages of the disease and was convalescing and hope was in the hearts of every one for the full recovery of the dear little girl whose happy face and cute ways always attracted attention. Her mission seemed to be the making of the sunshine of smiles and the shadow of death passing over this life is most distressing. She was 5 years old. Interment was made in the Evergreen cemetery on Tuesday.

THOMAS J. STITELY died near Mt. Airy, Md., on Sept. 6, aged 64 years. He was seriously injured recently by falling from a wagon, which was the cause of his death. He lived in Littlestown at one time. He leaves a wife and following children, Mrs. Chas. Cook of Warfieldsburg, Howard Stitley of Hagerstown, Mrs. Oswald Kress of Littlestown, and Miss Mary and Thurman Stitley at home.

LEVI GROSCHOST died in Hanover on Sunday aged 89 years; 6 months and 11 days. He was born in Oxford township, learned blacksmithing in New Oxford, followed that trade there for five years and then removed to Hanover, where he married. His wife died in 1879. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Maria Hull and Mrs. Solomon Bixler of Hanover, and Mrs. Alice Fissel of Berwick township, this county. One sister survives, Mrs. Susan Albert of York Springs. Funeral Wednesday.

Mrs. NANCY NEIDERER, widow of Peter Neiderer, died at Brushtown, Mt. Pleasant township on Monday, aged 72 years. She had been in failing health for two years. She leaves two sons and three daughters, Peter Neiderer of Conowago township, John Neiderer and Mrs. Gregory Lawrence of Brushtown, Mrs. G. F. M. Smith of Mt. Rock, and Mrs. Eugene Lawrence of Edgemoor. Funeral this Wednesday morning at Conowago Chapel.

HAMILTON D. HEMMER, a prominent banker of Harrisburg, died on Tuesday of last week in his 74th year. He was born in New Oxford and reared there and in 1866 went to Harrisburg, going into the butchering and cattle business, and in 1887 was made president of the newly organized Merchants' Bank of that place. Later he organized the Central Trust Co. He was twice married, first to Miss Mary J. Delone of East Berlin. He is survived by his second wife and six daughters by his first marriage.

Mrs. WESLEY A. REARY died on last Wednesday at Biglerville from a paralytic stroke. The funeral was on Friday, interment in Center View Cemetery. She leaves beside her husband the following children: Mrs. Q. Smith of Florida, Mrs. Louise Miller, Mrs. Lewis Minnick of Gettysburg, Mrs. Charles Howe of Waynesboro, Mrs. John Deatriek of Biglerville, Robert of Cashtown, Frank of Chambersburg, and John of Roanoke, Va. One brother, Jacob Cashman, of Waynesboro, one sister, Mrs. Henry Little of Arendtsville.

JOHN CARTER, the most promising young colored man in this place, died Tuesday morning Sept. 20 at his home on West High St., aged about 22 years. John Carter possessed high ideals, a fine character and was ambitious and indefatigable in his work to reach the goal ahead and it is doubtless due to overwork that his early death is due. He graduated from Gettysburg High School, standing high in his class. After attending college he entered Howard University, Washington, preparing himself for the medical profession and was within one year of graduation. As soon as vacation came John came home, secured work on the battlefield and helped to pay his way through college beside working during his spare moments in college to the same end. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Carter.

The "Littletown Independent" rushed to the defense of the Hon. Wm. H. Long, of Hanover, and makes a worse case out for him than the Compiler ever suggested. We simply called the attitude of the Hon. Wm. H. Long as one playing the Pharisee, in other words self righteous. Campaign falsehoods had been circulated about Mr. Brodbeck before the primaries and to the same effect as those Mr. Long voiced, but the Democratic people of both York and Adams county know a campaign concoction and they went to the primaries and voted for Mr. Brodbeck for their Congressional candidate, and they nominated him by a good big vote, and what the Democratic people did at the primaries should have been sufficient for any good Democrat. There was no excuse whatever for a prospective County Chairman to ask for affidavits after the people had spoken, and asking them then placed Mr. Long in a self righteous attitude. The Independent however uncovers the purpose of the affidavits and places Mr. Long in a worse position, for it says if the affidavits had been made prosecutions for perjury would have followed. What a rattle brain conspiracy to attempt to entice a man to make an affidavit in a matter wholly out of court and then propose to hold him for an offence which can only take place in a judicial proceeding. The "Independent" practically makes out a case against the Hon. Wm. H. Long of being a stool pigeon with the affidavits to betray Mr. Brodbeck to the opposition. Well! Well! If we are to believe the "Independent," why we did not begin to put it strong enough about the Hanover politicians. And all this is so much more reason why Democrats should not be misled by this tomfoolery, for Andrew R. Brodbeck has made most emphatic denial of every allegation made against him and the only attitude for a Democrat to take is to support and work for the Democratic nominee to represent a Democratic district in a Democratic Congress.

THE MAINE DISAPPROVAL.

And we certainly did hear from Maine, a Democratic Governor elected by over 9000 majority, two Democratic Congressmen and a legislature which will send a Democrat to the United States Senate to succeed Eugene Hale. And what was the matter with Maine? And what was the matter in that strong Republican Massachusetts district where a Democrat was elected several months ago, and the matter in the Republican New York district that sent a Democrat to Congress quite recently. And while the explanation is going ahead tell the meaning of the sweep of the in-variant wave, reducing the majority in Vermont, knocking out a stamper in New Hampshire for a progressive, carrying Collette to victory by a larger vote in Wisconsin and John C. Barrows going down to defeat. The Democrats have been in control in Kansas, Iowa, California and many other points. Are all these things out of meaning? Have they no meaning? As sure as two and two are four they have a meaning just as plain as a nose on a man's face and that is that the Republican people do not approve the broken platform promises, they do not approve of the Taft incapacity, they do not approve of the new lease of life to the privileges of the tariff barons and they do not approve of the throttling of representative government by conservatism.

RID STATE OF THE MACHINE

Grim Shows How Republican Misrule Crushes Farmer.

PROPER RURAL SCHOOLS DENIED

Veto of Educational Code and Dirt Road Jugglery Recent Examples of Bosses' Insolent Snubbing of People.

Wednesday, Sept. 7, was Democratic day at the Farmers' Picnic at the White City, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. The feature of the occasion was a speech by State Senator Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for governor. It is estimated that 10,000 people attended the picnic that day.

Senator Grim was introduced by John Burton, chairman of the Democratic reception committee. In part Mr. Grim said:

"If I can show you that the Democratic party advocates the principles which you advocate and that the Republican party has done those things which they should not have done and let undone those things which they should have done, then you cannot consistently hesitate to support our party if you would be true to your convictions.

"The national and state governments attempt to regulate everything, even prescribing the conditions under which you are born, the conditions of your marriage and the permit of your death and burial. Samuel J. Tilden, in a speech before the New York state Democratic convention in 1871, said that 'The creed of the Democratic party was comprised in two ideas: First, to limit as much as possible all governmental power, enlarging everywhere the domain of individual judgment and action; and secondly, to throw back the governmental powers necessary to be exercised as much as possible upon the states and the localities, approaching in every case the individuals to be affected. The opposite ideas, to meddle with everything properly belonging to the individual and to centralize all governmental powers, express the tendencies of the Republican party.' How true was this prophecy! It is the favorite policy of the Republican party to teach the people to look to Washington as the source of power, instead of the Democratic view, which teaches that the source of power is in the people themselves.

The People Are All Powerful.

"Republicans believe that what is good enough for the majority of this nation is good enough for the locality. Democrats believe that this is their own affair so long as they do not conflict with any larger principles affecting their neighbors. One doctrine teaches that the benefits emanate from the people themselves, and that officials are only their public servants. Democrats believe that all power was originally vested in the people, that they gave to the state some of these powers and that the state granted some of these same powers as were necessary to the general government.

"Before the Civil War with few exceptions the affairs of the government and state were administered by the same party which watched at the birth of the nation. Under its guidance was shaped its future destiny. Upon the broad principles of equality its success was assured. The country and state during this time was largely agricultural and the farmers were the great support of the party. 'Equal rights for all, special privileges for none,' was a cardinal principle. Trusts, monopolies and subsidies found no foothold in our legislation. But now how changed! The mere statement of the proposition throws upon the party in power since the war the burden of alarming conditions which have produced such irregularities. Who will deny that special privilege has become a part of our legislative system? Who will deny that we have a condition of privilege whereby we can count our millionaires by the hundreds, and that our protected industries have become powerful enough to throttle the government itself? What have you farmers been doing all the time? How have your interests been cared for during this period of millionaire development? How many of you have become millionaires? Has any man worked harder and earned more than you have? You have been helping this new set of farmers by your votes, and what have you received in return for making the nation? Have your lands increased in value over fifty years ago? Do you now bring any more money than they did then? And in return for all these grants of special privilege to the interests, are your taxes any less than they were fifty years ago? They have increased in every instance.

The Tariff a Yoke of Bondage.

"No, gentlemen this management is not in your interests, and you only add to your burden by supporting the Republican party. There are industries that are directly benefited by this legislation, but it is not yours, and you are therefore paying dearly for it. Take the present tariff for an example. What benefit does the farmer derive from high protective tariff to compensate him for the increase in cost which he must pay for his goods? Everything he buys is made by the hands of some one else, and he must pay for it. He must say whether he will support the party

"Republicans believe that what is good enough for the majority of this nation is good enough for the locality. Democrats believe that this is their own affair so long as they do not conflict with any larger principles affecting their neighbors. One doctrine teaches that the benefits emanate from the people themselves, and that officials are only their public servants. Democrats believe that all power was originally vested in the people, that they gave to the state some of these powers and that the state granted some of these same powers as were necessary to the general government.

"Before the Civil War with few exceptions the affairs of the government and state were administered by the same party which watched at the birth of the nation. Under its guidance was shaped its future destiny. Upon the broad principles of equality its success was assured. The country and state during this time was largely agricultural and the farmers were the great support of the party. 'Equal rights for all, special privileges for none,' was a cardinal principle. Trusts, monopolies and subsidies found no foothold in our legislation. But now how changed! The mere statement of the proposition throws upon the party in power since the war the burden of alarming conditions which have produced such irregularities. Who will deny that special privilege has become a part of our legislative system? Who will deny that we have a condition of privilege whereby we can count our millionaires by the hundreds, and that our protected industries have become powerful enough to throttle the government itself? What have you farmers been doing all the time? How have your interests been cared for during this period of millionaire development? How many of you have become millionaires? Has any man worked harder and earned more than you have? You have been helping this new set of farmers by your votes, and what have you received in return for making the nation? Have your lands increased in value over fifty years ago? Do you now bring any more money than they did then? And in return for all these grants of special privilege to the interests, are your taxes any less than they were fifty years ago? They have increased in every instance.

The Tariff a Yoke of Bondage.

"No, gentlemen this management is not in your interests, and you only add to your burden by supporting the Republican party. There are industries that are directly benefited by this legislation, but it is not yours, and you are therefore paying dearly for it. Take the present tariff for an example. What benefit does the farmer derive from high protective tariff to compensate him for the increase in cost which he must pay for his goods? Wednesday, Sept. 7, was Democratic day at the Farmers' Picnic at the White City, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. The feature of the occasion was a speech by State Senator Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for governor. It is estimated that 10,000 people attended the picnic that day.

Senator Grim was introduced by John Burton, chairman of the Democratic reception committee. In part Mr. Grim said:

"If I can show you that the Democratic party advocates the principles which you advocate and that the Republican party has done those things which they should not have done and let undone those things which they should have done, then you cannot consistently hesitate to support our party if you would be true to your convictions.

"The national and state governments attempt to regulate everything, even prescribing the conditions under which you are born, the conditions of your marriage and the permit of your death and burial. Samuel J. Tilden, in a speech before the New York state Democratic convention in 1871, said that 'The creed of the Democratic party was comprised in two ideas: First, to limit as much as possible all governmental power, enlarging everywhere the domain of individual judgment and action; and secondly, to throw back the governmental powers necessary to be exercised as much as possible upon the states and the localities, approaching in every case the individuals to be affected. The opposite ideas, to meddle with everything properly belonging to the individual and to centralize all governmental powers, express the tendencies of the Republican party.' KID STATE OF THE MACHINE

Veto of Educational Code and Dirt Road Jugglery Recent Examples of Bosses' Insolent Snubbing of People.

Wednesday, Sept. 7, was Democratic day at the Farmers' Picnic at the White City, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. The feature of the occasion was a speech by State Senator Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for governor. It is estimated that 10,000 people attended the picnic that day.

Senator Grim was introduced by John Burton, chairman of the Democratic reception committee. In part Mr. Grim said:

"If I can show you that the Democratic party advocates the principles which you advocate and that the Republican party has done those things which they should not have done and let undone those things which they should have done, then you cannot consistently hesitate to support our party if you would be true to your convictions.

"The national and state governments attempt to regulate everything, even prescribing the conditions under which you are born, the conditions of your marriage and the permit of your death and burial. Samuel J. Tilden, in a speech before the New York state Democratic convention in 1871, said that 'The creed of the Democratic party was comprised in two ideas: First, to limit as much as possible all governmental power, enlarging everywhere the domain of individual judgment and action; and secondly, to throw back the governmental powers necessary to be exercised as much as possible upon the states and the localities, approaching in every case the individuals to be affected. The opposite ideas, to meddle with everything properly belonging to the individual and to centralize all governmental powers, express the tendencies of the Republican party.' How true was this prophecy! It is the favorite policy of the Republican party to teach the people to look to Washington as the source of power. Instead of the Democratic view, which teaches that the source of power is in the people themselves.

The People Are All Powerful.

"Republicans believe that what is good enough for the majority of this nation is good enough for the locality. Democrats believe that this is their own affair so long as they do not conflict with any larger principles affecting their neighbors. One doctrine teaches that the benefits emanate from the people themselves, and that officials are only their public servants. Democrats believe that all power was originally vested in the people, that they gave to the state some of these powers, and that the state granted some of these same powers as were necessary to the general government. "Before the Civil War with few exceptions the affairs of the government and state were administered by the same party which watched at the birth of the nation. Under its guidance was shaped its future destiny. Upon the broad principles of equality its success was assured. The country and state during this time was largely agricultural and the farmers were the great support of the party. 'Equal rights for all, special privileges for none,' was a cardinal principle. Trusts, monopolies and subsidies found no foothold in our legislation. But now how changed! The mere statement of the proposition throws upon the party in power since the war the burden of alarming conditions which have produced such irregularities. Who will deny that special privilege has become a part of our legislative system? Who will deny that we have a condition of privilege whereby we can count our millionaires by the hundreds, and that our protected industries have become powerful enough to throttle the government itself? What have you farmers been doing all the time? How have your interests been cared for during this period of millenary development? How many of you have become millionaires? How many have worked harder and earned more than you have? You have been helping this movement for years by your votes, and what have you received in return for building the nation? Have your lands increased in value over fifty years ago? Do your crops bring any more now than they did then? And in return for all these grants of special privilege to the interests, are your taxes any less than they were fifty years ago? They have increased in every instance.

The Tariff a Yoke of Bondage.

"No, gentlemen, this management is not in your interests, and you only add to your burden by supporting the Republican party. There are industries that are directly benefited by this legislation, but it is not yours, and you are therefore paying dearly for it. Take the present tariff for an example. What benefit does the farmer derive from high protective tariff to compensate him for the enormous cost which he must pay for nearly everything he buys? It is for him to say whether or not he will continue to pay the price of bondage around your neck so that you may prosper the manufacturers and the business men. You are slaves, and let other slaves be free. Do you desire to be free? Then vote for the Republican party. It is plain that you can never hope for this from the Republican party."

Explaining that the blind partisanship which impels a man to vote the political ticket his father voted is the source of present-day political machine power, Senator Grim continued:

"Mr. Tener says that it elected he will carry out the wise and sagacious policies which have distinguished the administration of the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart.

Proper Schools Denied the Farmer.

"Mr. Tener will speak to you tomorrow of three subjects—schools, roads and health. As to the first, Governor Stuart vetoed the school code which had been prepared with great care by a committee of eminent educators, and in so doing, denied to the children of our state the benefits of a more advanced system of education. If Mr. Tener carries out the principles of Governor Stuart, as he promises, he will do the same thing. This measure had been promised to the people, and while not perfect it was as perfect as it ever will be and should not have been vetoed.

"The greatest difficulty with which you have had to contend in the last life is the disadvantage under which your children labor. To keep the boy and girls upon the farm we have established the township high school, and today no bright boy or girl upon the farm needs to go to the city for high school education. But this in turn is altogether checkmated by the business college which sends its agents to visit personally every high school graduate who does not expect to enter a profession and allures him by the promise of a good position after a year's course in business. We need the new code to check this tendency. We need all the school facilities in the country that we can get to hold our young people upon the farm, and the school code contained many provisions to that effect, particularly in the requirements as to agriculture.

Farical Dirt Road Jugglery.

"It takes a bold man who can defend the party in power for its jugglery with the road appropriation. We divide our road legislation into two branches—stone road legislation and dirt road legislation. For forty years before 1902 we had very little legislation upon the subject. In 1903 we created the state highway department and began the construction of stone roads by the state with local aid, and since then we have invested in round figures about $10,000,000 in stone roads. The present dirt road law was first enacted in 1905 and carried with it an appropriation of 15 per cent to all townships which had abolished the work tax, but the legislature at that session omitted to provide the appropriation, and the legislature of 1907 appropriated $150,000 for 1906, and the legislature of 1909 appropriated $297,000 to pay the 15 per cent appropriation for 1907. The appropriation for 1908 and 1909 have never been paid. In 1907 the legislature increased it 10 per cent to 50 per cent, provided it not more than $20 a mile should be paid, but Governor Stuart for some reason vetoed this measure and out the appropriation. The last legislature re-enacted the same measure, the original bill carrying with it $500,000 for the purpose. It was known that it would require all of it to meet the 50 per cent, and that this would be of some real assistance to the farmers of the state. It was equally well known that if money was in the state treasury to meet the appropriation. In spite of this knowledge the city members of the legislature succeeded in cutting down the appropriation to $1,000,000, and the governor when it reached him cut it another one-half, so that we are faced with the proposition to the legislature and the governor of $1,000,000 from you farmers of the state, or in other words left you bear that much additional tax burden during these two years. I say the farmers of the state, because after all is said and done, it is the farmers' tax that keeps in order the dirt roads. If you believe that Mr. Tener will carry out this policy of Governor Stuart, and that suits you, vote for him."

Mr. Grim criticized the state department of health as being a type of "summary legislation with a vengeance," and added that he will have more to say upon this subject later in the campaign.

Injustice of Present Taxation.

He then branched to the more vital but more complex subject of taxation, concluding his speech as follows: "While the government was extending to other interests, government support, the farmer was supporting the government, but now that inland industries have developed into giant trusts and manufacturers have been able to grow rich and the railroad companies have done nothing in return for franchises except to discriminate against you, you wrong yourself if you do not demand that other industries should share with you the burden of taxation. There never was any intelligent reason given why $100 invested in real estate should pay any more to the support of the government than the same amount invested in interest or in merchandise. The man who invests $200 in an automobile bill that goes tearing up your roads should pay road tax the same as you do upon your farm, that cost you the same amount. The certificate of deposit in bank should pay as much interest as the mortgage upon a farm. You more for the former should not be required to pay a tax on what he owns and on what he owes besides. The corporation pays a flat tax upon net earnings, but the farmer pays an average of sixteen per cent upon net earnings but upon $100 of net earnings it is true that the corporation pays state tax. The 27,000 corporations doing business in this state should pay every dollar of the state tax, leaving all other taxes now collected by the state for local purposes. The farmer for years has not had a fair chance with the man engaged in other enterprises."

A DEMOCRATIC YEAR

Democrats Appreciate Responsibility as Well as Opportunity.

[From the New York World, Sept. 9.]

That this is a Democratic year was proved again yesterday when the Democrats of Connecticut nominated Judge Simeon E. Baldwin for governor. Of Judge Baldwin's eminent qualifications there can be no question.

Next week it is probable that the Democrats of New Jersey will name Woodrow Wilson for governor, and ten days later the Democrats of New York will place in nomination one of several highly acceptable men now urged for the governorship. Ohio Democrats already have a national figure in the field in the person of Judson Harmon.

Thus in the ability and character of the men that they present for leadership Democrats are revealing appreciation of responsibility as well as of opportunity. The other day Vermont established the fact that one Republican out of every four would not vote. Next Monday, no doubt, Maine will show the same dissatisfaction, and the election of a Democratic governor is possible. In November a like contribution of affairs will give the Democrats a sweeping victory throughout the country, with control of the house and an increased representation in the United States senate. On the morning of Nov. 5 the American people will be astonished at the proportions of this Democratic triumph.

These achievements are to be brought about, as the World has said, by Republicans as well as by Democrats. Not having their best men everywhere Democrats are making it easy for Republicans to participate directly or indirectly in the great uprising.

The Absolutely Essential.

Nay, Theodore, nay. You may not be a good Republican. Indeed, we could hardly call you such. But neither are you, for all your Democratic preaching, a good Democrat. In order to make sure of reform we shall have to get a change of parties. The next president of the United States must be a Democrat. We are giving it to you straight, old man, "must" be!—News Item.

While the Democrats and some of the Republicans on the Ballinger investigating committee were attending to business at St. Paul, Congressman Maria E. Olmsted was patching up his fences by making a political speech in his district near Harrisburg. Isn't it about time that Pennsylvania be represented at Washington by men who serve the people first and themselves and "the interests" last.

One way to help the Republican machine in its efforts to keep its grip on Pennsylvania is to fail to be registered. Voting is then impossible under the law. Electors in third class cities have two more days in which to be registered—Tuesday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 22. Registration last fall, last winter or last spring has expired.

It is rumored in gang circles that one of the first measures to be passed next winter, should the Penrose crowd be in control, will be the "Stuart state highway bill," which the present governor vetoed last year. Can you imagine anyone except Jim McNichol getting the contract?

No one is a Christian who hasn't been baptized. No man in a Pennsylvania city is a voter who hasn't been registered in person. Tuesday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 22, are the remaining registration days in third class cities, which means every city except Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Scranton.

Any elector who is twenty-two years old or more cannot vote in November unless he shall have paid a state or county tax within the past two years. Such taxes must be paid not later than Oct. 5. If you have not paid a tax since 1908 hunt up your ward or township county tax collector and pay it.

And to All Pennsylvania Republican Congressmen.

Has it ever occurred to the Taftites that one way of keeping Cannon from being weaker is to beat him in his district? Same procedure applies to Daboll.—Pittsburg Post.

The ballot franchise is the inestimable privilege and duty of the American citizen. Payment of taxes is also a duty, though not much of a privilege. The man who refuses to pay tax cannot vote. Pay your tax before Oct. 5 if you have not already done so since 1908.

Don't Want Roosevelt.

A Beverly, Mass., dispatch tries to make Colonel Roosevelt a Democrat. The G. O. P. may be willing and the Democratic party needs recruits, but it doesn't want to add to its liabilities.—New York Evening Telegram.

TEACHERS RETIREMENT FUND

BILL WILL BE INTRODUCED AT THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

Providing for the Pensioning of Teachers—Some of the Argument in Favor of Bill.

At the annual meeting of the Adams county teachers held in Gettysburg, Aug. 26, an organization of the Teachers' League was effected and delegates were elected to a State convention to be held in Harrisburg, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. The primary object of this movement among the teachers is to establish a State retirement fund for old and worn-out teachers, and the next legislature will be asked to pass a bill which will place our State in line with such States as Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland, Massachusetts and others which have recognized the real worth of the teaching profession and are rewarding it accordingly. Believing that public schools should be a matter of public interest and concern the teachers ask the papers of the county to assist in this movement.

All agree that the real function of our public schools is to train childhood and youth for its proper place in life. Schools should be organized and administered not primarily for the convenience of teachers or the comfort of taxpayers, but for the uplift of society. Keeping this in view it is no argument to urge a retirement fund because teachers want it or because teachers need it. There are four cogent reasons why our schools and the best interests of parents, taxpayers and patrons themselves demand it.

First—Teachers of the largest ability are every year being drawn away from the school service in which they have proven their high capacity to enter on more remunerative fields of endeavor. To continue serving our children is to accept an old age of dependence or privation. To enter upon the new field of work is to receive rewards large enough to enable them to make provision for their declining years. The teacher does not receive, nor is she ever likely to receive, compensation ample enough to permit such provision. Unless we would see the education of our children turned over to second-rate women or third-rate men, we must provide the rewards that would permit our ablest teachers to consecrate their lives to the service of our schools. I submit that for this reason alone it is the duty and interest of every parent and every patriot to aid in securing honorable and adequate pensions for teachers.

Second—The efficiency of an army always depends upon the character of the recruiting department. The great army of teachers should always attract many of the brightest and ablest young men and women who year by year graduate from our leading educational institutions. Nay, the service should be so treated as to attract young men and women of character and brains to prepare for it as an honored and honorable profession. The current rewards of the teacher are so grossly inadequate that the very material we most need in our schools is being diverted to other callings.

Even if salaries should be increased to the highest point for which we have any reason to hope, they would still be too small to permit the laying by of a competence for old age. Young men and women of high attainments see this, and carefully avoid the teaching profession. A guaranty that faithful service of our schools for a term of years would insure in age the modest independence and leisure for study that many an aspiring scholar most desires, would win rich recruits for our educational army. Can there be any doubt of the wisdom and the expediency of instituting honorable pensions as a means to this needed reinforcement of our schools?

Third—There are in many of our schools men and women with the largest capacity for growth, who are earning unusually good salaries from which they are laying by a fund to take care of themselves in old age. To do this they are compelled to deny themselves the opportunity to travel, the time to study, the ownership of books, and the change of scene for bodily rest that are essential to the life and growth of an inspiring teacher. How a retirement pension would change all this, and enable such men and women to multiply their own powers, stimulate and refine their associates to the blessing of the boys and girls!

Fifth—In thousands of the older cities and towns of our union there are teachers who have practically worn themselves out in the service of our schools. From periods of from twenty-five to forty-five years they have spared no power of heart and brain in loving and consecrated devotion of their lives to the lives of boys and girls. They are body-tired, heart-sore, and brain-weary, with a frequency that is agonizing to witness. They have been able to save little or nothing. They cannot see that it is their duty to retire to privation or to charity. No official has the criminal courage and hardness of heart to turn them out to alms and starvation. As a result, they are spoiling the tempers and abusing the intellects of whole schoolhouses full of children in return for their confinement by the community to a hard labor in the schoolroom. But this cruel and inhuman punishment of faithful old teachers who ought long ago to have honorably retired on pay goes on in a thousand American towns. The splendid teaching that they did for twenty-five years is no excuse for continuing to sacrifice to each of their broken years forty or fifty of your boys and girls. Forget these devoted broken men and women if you will. If in the hardness of your heart you shall conclude to work them to death, I say nothing of the shame. But I do ask a common business intelligence justify you in paying for something that you are not getting? Can decent regard for your own boys and girls justify their continued sacrifice? There is a patriotism whose ebullition takes the form of a rush of blood to the head and words to the lips, that might with hand on heart stand in the presence of teachers and schools thus sacrificed and talk of love of country; but you my friends, know that no country is worth loving that with eyes open to such an abuse long permits it to continue. As honest men and women, are we not driven to the conclusion that honorable and adequate pensions for teachers must be provided in defense of home and its children?

Stems have already been taken to have the teachers discuss the matter in their various township meetings, organizations will there be effected and at the session of the county institute decisive and united action will be taken. Meanwhile teachers will use their influence with the members of the legislature and all who are voters will refuse to vote for one who will not commit himself in favor of the retirement fund bill. By personal efforts as well as by better our legislative candidates will be asked to state their position.

At the Harrisburg meeting in a few weeks the bill will be framed and in January the legislature will be asked to pass it.

In order to defray necessary expenses the teachers will be asked to tax themselves a per cent. of one month's salary which will be collected at the institute in November. By such united and determined efforts the teachers hope to win.

Other definite ends which the movement has in view are better sanitary conditions for our schools, a higher standard of scholarship, longer terms, better salaries and tenure of office while work is satisfactory.

Rural Carriers Can Execute Vouchers

Rural free delivery mail carriers in Adams county have been advised that they will have additional duties to perform and an opportunity to earn additional compensation hereafter. In accordance with legislation enacted in the last session of congress they have been created postoffice public by the United States postoffice department and are required to execute vouchers for pensioners residing on their routes, for which service they will receive 25 cents for each voucher executed.

The establishment of the rural free delivery service resulted in the discontinuance of 23,550 fourth class post-offices, the postmasters of which had been authorized to execute pension vouchers. To afford assistance to the pensioners congress provided that the carriers of the free delivery service should do the work previously performed by the fourth class postmasters.

The act of congress approved June 25 last, providing for the payment of pensions to old soldiers and their widows during the fiscal year ending June 30 next, has the following with regard to the new duties of the rural carriers:

That hereafter, in addition to the officers now authorized to administer oaths in such cases, rural free delivery carriers of the United States are hereby required, empowered and authorized to administer any and all oaths required to be made by pensioners and their witnesses in the execution of their vouchers, with like effect and force as officers having a seal; and they are authorized to charge and receive for each voucher not exceeding 25 cents to be paid by the pensioner.

The carriers are, however, notaries only so far as postoffice business is concerned, they having no power to administer oaths or transact other business of a notary public that does not concern the department. They will execute the pension vouchers of the veterans at their doors for each quarter, saving them a vast deal of time and trouble, and will also be authorized to accept affidavits regarding lost articles and such other business as refers primarily to the postal service.

Dispersing With Algebra.

Chicago is leading the country these days in reforming the curriculum of the public schools. It has just kicked out algebra and a lot of arithmetic, compound interest, for instance. The effort is being made to teach the children only those things which are likely to be useful to them and which they are pretty certain to remember. For this reason history is being taught in new fashion. A child is no longer marked upon its knowledge of the number of men killed in particular features in our history, which are of no importance now. In most of the school histories a large amount of space is given to colonial times, customs of the Indians, etc.

Ten pages at most will give the salient facts of our history up to the time of the revolution. Those who are interested can find plenty of details for their delectation but what every child should know is something about the origin and development of this government and his present or prospective duties as a citizen.

Will Contest Settled.

The legal contest between Prof. H. A. Surface, state economic zoologist, and the heirs of William Bentz ended last week, when a compromise was effected. Prof. Surface lost in the courts in Carlisle and his appeal to the higher court brought an order for a retrial. By the will the greater part of the William Bentz estate went to Prof. Surface. A contest, based on undue influences and want of testamentary capacity set aside the will. To avoid further litigation, the Bentz heirs agreed to a settlement, allowing Prof. Surface part of the estate. The amount conceded is not announced.

The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid, which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.

In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

ATWATER'S AUNT

By Harriet Lummis Smith

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

The two friends were sophomores in college when Atwater first showed Minturn one of his aunt's letters. Minturn read it with an appreciation that was tinged with surprise. He had aunts of his own who sent him occasional checks, and frequent budgets of advice, but their communications did not in the least resemble that of Atwater's aunt. It was a long letter but Minturn was sorry when he reached the signature.

"I say," he remarked, as he folded the letter carefully, and returned it to its envelope, "she hasn't forgotten that she was young once, has she?"

"You bet she hasn't," said the affectionate nephew, heartily, and there the matter rested for the time. But when Atwater sprained his wrist at football practice, Minturn volunteered to write his usual weekly letter to his aunt.

Atwater made such hard work of dictation that Minturn finally dispensed with his assistance, and wrote the letters himself. He received a nice note from Atwater's aunt, thanking him for his kindness, and forthwith he developed a most surprising solicitude regarding Atwater's wrist, hinting darkly at any number of dreadful consequences that were likely to result from using it before it had fully recovered. When at length he could frame no possible excuse for writing Atwater's weekly letter to his aunt, he rallied his courage to make a proposition on his own behalf.

The friendship of an older woman," wrote Minturn to Atwater's aunt, "a woman like yourself, who knows life and the world, whose mind is enriched by the culture of experience, without losing sympathy with youth, is an inestimable boon to a young man like myself." It was his best sophomore style, which had resulted in his appointment as editor-in-chief of the college paper. It proved equally effective with Atwater's aunt. She graciously agreed to his suggestion that they correspond.

It was rather singular that though their novel acquaintance soon ripened into a sort of intimacy, they did not meet. The vacation Minturn spent at Atwater's home, Atwater's aunt happened to be in Europe, and when the boys graduated she was ill and unable to be present at the commencement exercises. But the correspondence continued without a break. Minturn told Atwater's aunt a number of things he would never have thought of confiding to any one else, and she advised him in his various dilemmas with the calm confidence of one who has lived through youth's turmoil and knows the peace that lies beyond. Minturn always thought of her as a woman whose smile had in it a certain wistfulness, on whose delicate face, under the gray hair, love and loss had left their unmistakable tracery. It was not necessary to go into tiresome details with Atwater's aunt. She always understood him.

Minturn had been in his uncle's law office nearly two years when something came up on which he felt the need of a woman's counsel. Moreover, it was something he could not very well trust to paper. His uncle had said to him on several occasions that it was time he was settling down, and Marguerite Foss had intimated the same thing, not in words, it is true, but by means of sidelong glances and unnecessary blushes.

Marguerite was a pretty girl. Minturn thought it a pity that she was so plump, and had so much color. But he told himself, judicially, he might do worse. He wondered what Atwater's aunt would advise.

The legal quality of mind had not become sufficiently a second nature with Minturn to preclude an occasional impulsive act on his part. When a letter came from Atwater's aunt, saying that she had noted signs of mental perturbation in several of his recent letters, and delicately hinted at her readiness to be of service, Minturn suddenly resolved to answer it in person. He took an early train, and reached his friend's home in the golden quiet of the summer evening.

Atwater was on the porch sitting in a hammock with a girl—a very pretty girl. If the cabman had been alive to his opportunity, he might have given Minturn any change he pleased, for the young man was thinking of the girl in the hammock, and how red and clumsy and countryfied Marguerite would look beside her. With an odd pang he wondered if Atwater were engaged. There had been something in the attitude of the two not unlike the affectionate confidence of acknowledged lovers.

Atwater was down the steps before Minturn had time for further reflections. "Couldn't believe my eyes, old man," he roared. "To think of you dropping down on us in this fashion!" Then he pounded Minturn on the back, and then prodded him in the ribs, all of which in the masculine equivalent for cordiality. These courtesies having received attention, he seized Minturn by the arm and dragged him up the steps to the divinity in the hammock.

The girl had risen to her feet, and was looking down with a curious air that confirmed Minturn's suspicions. He was devoured by a sudden unworthy jealousy of Atwater, who, good fellow though he was, did not deserve such lavishness on the part of capricious fortune. He suspected a dimple back of the girl's shoulders and wished impatiently that she would look up that he might know the color of the eyes shaded by her curling lashes. There was a long, silent pause which might have seemed awkward to an outsider, though not to Minturn, who was sufficiently occupied.

"O, I say," cried Atwater, who had been looking from one to the other in surprise. "I forgot you'd never been introduced. Why, Minturn, this is my aunt."

The dimple was there, just as Minturn had suspected, but a sudden, uncontrollable flush drowned it.

"There's no need of looking at me with such reproach," cried Atwater, aunt in fluttering defiance, "just because I haven't wrinkles and gray hair."

"No, she's an all-right aunt," Atwater assured him, "even if she doesn't quite look the part. She's 13 months younger than I am, aren't you, dear little auntie?"

"But, how—" began Minturn, and then he paused uncertainly. He was trying to reconcile the worldly wisdom that had been his guide so long, with the pretty girlish confusion of her averted face. A sudden sense of relief possessed him as he realized that it would not be necessary to ask her counsel concerning Marguerite.

When Atwater took him by the arm, Minturn turned to him almost appealingly. "See here," he said. "I want to talk things over a little with your aunt. Just clear out like a good fellow, won't you?"

"Sure," said Atwater, obligingly, and he departed. When he came back after an hour, the pair in the hammock looked at him with gentle reproach and proceeded to ignore him. Atwater went away again, and smoked his cigar on the back steps.

"Old Minturn will make a first-class little uncle," Atwater remarked, philosophically, as he blew rings of smoke up toward the stars. "And, beside, a pretty, marriageable aunt is too much of a responsibility for a young fellow like me."

VITAL PROCESSES OF PLANTS

Many Respects in Which Their "Blood" is the Same as That of the Animals.

The blood of plants is like the blood of animals. The red cheeks of apples and those of the children are produced by entirely similar processes and blood is not peculiar to the animal kingdom. And this truth was discovered by popular instinct long before it was discovered by science.

The farmer gives the name bleeding to the education of sap from cut stems, branches and roots, and wine is called the "blood of the grape," a designation which acquires new significance in the light of modern research. It has long been recognized that no sharp boundary line can be drawn between the animal and vegetable kingdoms and that the cleft which seemed to separate them was artificial.

It is now certain that a complete understanding of the vital processes of plants cannot be gained without reference to those of animals. It is well known, for example, that the process of respiration is essentially the same in animals and plants, both of which absorb oxygen and exhale carbon-dioxide formed by the oxidation or combustion of food and bodily substance.

Prof. Palladin of St. Petersburg recently discovered that this identity extends to the details and successive stages of the respiratory process. The respiration of plants, as in animals, is accomplished by successive stages. The complex foodstuffs are split up by the agency of substance called enzymes without the aid of oxygen. Different combination of atmospheric oxygen with colorless substances called chromogens, which are thus converted into pigments.

By the deoxidizing action of the living cell the pigments are again reduced to chromogens and the oxygen thus liberated attacks the substances derived from the complex foodstuffs and converts them into carbon-dioxide and water, the final products of normal respiration.

The process and its various stages are identical in plants and in animals. The similarity of the vegetable chromogens to the substances which serve as reservoirs and vehicles of oxygen in the blood of animals appears more clearly if we compare the former with the substances of higher animals, but with those of the blood of insects, and crustaceans, which is colorless, except when oxidized. In general plants more closely resemble the lower than the higher animals. Hence Palladin calls the cell sap the blood of plants.

Peculiar Charitable Idea.

The proposed home for indigent southern women in New York has met with such generous support on the part of northern women that the plan has been changed and widened. Instead of building the home in Virginia, as was at first proposed, it has now been determined to erect it near New York and to open it to both northern and southern women. It is planned to conduct it along the lines of the Louise home in Washington, where President Tyler's daughter spent her last days. The only restrictions will be that the inmates shall be of gentle birth and respectable. Mrs. Le Roy Brown is at the head of the committee which is raising the necessary funds.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET COMPLETE

Thomas H. Greevy Nominated For Lieutenant Governor.

EMINENT LAWYER AND CITIZEN

Has Been Active In Politics and Conspicuous In Civic and Fraternal Affairs—Will Make a Strenuous Campaign.

Thomas H. Greevy, of Altoona, a champion of clean politics and honest state government, has been selected by the Democratic executive committee as the candidate for lieutenant governor on the Democratic state ticket, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the withdrawal of Samuel B. Price, of Scranton.

Mayor S. M. Hoyer, from Greevy's home town, a member of the committee, assured the meeting that the new candidate would accept and assist with all his power in making it a strenuous campaign.

Sketch of the Nominee.

Thomas H. Greevy, the nominee for lieutenant governor, is one of the most prominent residents of Blair county. His parents were both from the County Roscommon, Ireland, though he himself was born at Birmingham, England, on April 4, 1850. His parents came to this country and settled in Williamsport, this state, when he was but six years of age. He received his education in the public schools of Williamsport and at Professor J. S. Davis' Commercial college in that city. He is a member of St. John's Roman Catholic church, of Altoona, of which Rev. M. M. Sheedy is rector.

Mr. Greevy was one of the organizers of the Altoona Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He is also a member of Altoona lodge, No. 102, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks; Altoona lodge, No. 74, Loyal Order of Moose, of which he is past director; Knights of Columbus and Ancient Order of Hibernians. At the great Irish convention that was held in Chicago in 1895, over which John Finerty presided, Mr. Greevy was one of the secretaries and took an active interest in its deliberations. He is also a member of the Froshinn society, the Concordia society and Turn Verein, all of which are German organizations in Altoona, and takes an active part in their affairs.

His Early Career.

In 1871 Mr. Greevy entered the office of Samuel J. Morrison, in Williamsport, as a law student, but in 1873 moved to Altoona, where he finished his law studies with the firm of Tierney & Brumbaugh, leading attorneys of Blair county, and was admitted to the Blair county bar on Jan. 29, 1874. He immediately entered upon the practice of law, and when the firm of Tierney & Brumbaugh was dissolved, Mr. Greevy became a partner of Mr. Tierney. In 1876 this firm was dissolved and Mr. Greevy continued the practice alone.

In 1877 an act of assembly was passed authorizing the creation of the office of city recorder in certain cities of the commonwealth. The cities affected included Williamsport, Erie, Bradford, Altoona, Chester and one or two others. Altoona adopted the provisions of this act, and in 1877 Mr. Greevy was elected city recorder after a most bitter contest, which attracted attention over the whole state. His election was subsequently contested. John Cossna, of Bedford, took charge of the case for Mr. Greevy and brought it to a successful issue.

Active in Politics.

Mr. Greevy has always taken a very active part in politics and was frequently a delegate to state conventions. He held the office of city recorder for five years, was tendered a unanimous renomination, but refused and immediately resumed the practice of the law.

In 1888 Mr. Greevy was national delegate to the convention at St. Louis, which nominated Grover Cleveland for president. In 1888 he was the nominee of his party for congress from the Twentieth congressional district; his Republican opponent was Edward Scull, of Somerset. The district gave an average majority of about 6,500. Mr. Greevy was defeated by 4200. In 1890 he was again the Democratic nominee from the Twentieth congressional district, composed of Cambria, Blair, Somerset and Bedford counties. He was defeated by only 23 votes. Mr. Greevy instituted a contest and the case was argued before the committee at Washington by Hon. Augustus S. Landis, United States Senator William A. Wallace and A. H. Croft. It was never brought up in the house and died with the era of the term.

In 1902 Mr. Greevy was elected city solicitor of the city of Altoona, holding the position until May 1, 1905.

In 1904 he was Democratic candidate for state senator in the counties of Blair and Cambria, his opponent being J. C. Stinemann, and went down with the "Roosevelt avalanche," but ran 9000 ahead of his ticket.

Mr. Greevy has an extensive law practice in Blair county, principally civil, although he has been engaged on one side or the other of every important criminal case in the county for many years past.

ABBOTTSTOWN.

Great convention we had in our town. During the convention enough pledges were secured in the different departments to make Adams county a front line county. Emory Wolf and family have returned to Batavia, N. Y., where Mr. Wolf is employed as teacher in the commercial department. Mr. Wolf's mother accompanied them.

WONDER WHO.

Zumbrum Free.

About nine years ago John D. Zumbrum, employed in Hanover, enlisted in the United States Army. He participated in the Spanish-American war and was engaged in the memorable El Paso engagement, and later transferred to the Philippine Islands, where he served his enlisted term and was discharged with honors.

Shortly thereafter he became involved in a quarrel with a Spanish officer's wife, the woman endeavoring to kill Mr. Zumbrum with a stiletto. In self-defense he shot and killed her. After a hasty trial he was sentenced to fifteen years solitary confinement, which sentence was subsequently changed, and Zumbrum was given charge of about 70 prisoners and sent to an island—practically an exile. Under his direction the island has been cultivated.

Dr. Keller made every effort possible to obtain a pardon for the convicted man, and he and his attorneys, a few days ago, at a time when there appeared no hope whatever, received a letter from Zumbrum stating that he had been released. He is now on a voyage, the destination of which is not known.

Railroad Damages Settled.

According to three confessed judgments filed in the circuit court at Hagerstown, the Western Maryland Railway Company paid $3975 to the survivors of three of the victims of the head-on freight wreck that occurred on Raven Rock bridge, near Edgemont Aug. 22. The payments were in the nature of compromises. Settlement for the death of Clayton Kointz of Kingsdale, is not likely to be made as he was stealing a ride.

To the surviving widow, Daisy M. Fox, of John E. Fox, the fireman who jumped from the engine and fell from the bridge, and his children, Charles E. Margaret H. and Anna May Fox, the company gave $2,000. Fox died at the hospital Aug. 25, after lingering two days.

To James Frank Fouke, father of David Fouke, aged 24, the brakeman who jumped and fell under the bridge and was instantly killed, the company gave $775.

To Jasper N. Gigous, father of Harry N. Gigous, the fireman who was instantly killed, having his skull crushed, the company gave $300. The railroad company paid all the court costs.

To Electrify the W. F. & G.

The order for the material for the electrification of the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railroad was placed last week. The work will be completed in the early part of 1911. The Frederick Railroad Company, owners of the line, have already started work on the improvement. The equipment for this work is furnished by the Union Electric Company of Pittsburg.

THAT TRICK CLOUD.

The "Littlestown Independent" rushed to the defense of the Hon. Wm. H. Long, of Hanover, and makes a worse case out for him than the Compiler ever suggested. We simply called the attitude of the Hon. Wm. H. Long as one playing the Pharisee, in other words self righteous. Campaign falsehoods had been circulated about Mr. Brodbeck before the primaries and to the same effect as those Mr. Long voiced, but the Democratic people of both York and Adams county know a campaign concoction and they went to the primaries and voted for Mr. Brodbeck for their Congressional candidate, and they nominated him by a good big vote, and what the Democratic people did at the primaries should have been sufficient for any good Democrat. There was no excuse whatever for a prospective County Chairman to ask for affidavits after the people had spoken, and asking them then placed Mr. Long in a self righteous attitude. The Independent however uncovers the purpose of the affidavits and places Mr. Long in a worse position, for it says if the affidavits had been made prosecutions for perjury would have followed. What a rattle brain conspiracy to attempt to entice a man to make an affidavit in a matter wholly out of court and then propose to hold him for an offence which can only take place in a judicial proceeding. The "Independent" practically makes out a case against the Hon. Wm. H. Long of being a stool pigeon with the affidavits to betray Mr. Brodbeck to the opposition. Well! Well! If we are to believe the "Independent," why we did not begin to put it strong enough about the Hanover politicians. And all this is so much more reason why Democrats should not be misled by this tomfoolery, for Andrew R. Brodbeck has made most emphatic denial of every allegation made against him and the only attitude for a Democrat to take is to support and work for the Democratic nominee to represent a Democratic district in a Democratic Congress.

THE MAINE DISAPPROVAL.

And we certainly did hear from Maine, a Democratic Governor elected by over 9000 majority, two Democratic Congressmen and a legislature which will send a Democrat to the United States Senate to succeed Eugene Hale. And what was the matter with Maine? And what was the matter in that strong Republican Massachusetts district where a Democrat was elected several months ago? and the matter in the Republican New York district that sent a Democrat to Congress quite recently. And while the explanation is going ahead tell the meaning of the sweep of the insurgent wave, reducing the majority in Vermont, knocking out a standpat in New Hampshire for a progressive, carrying Follette to victory by a larger vote in Wisconsin and Julius C. Burrows going down to defeat. The insurgents have been in control in Kansas, Iowa, California and at many other points. Are all these things just happening? Have they no meaning. As sure as two and two are four they have a meaning just as plain as a nose on a man's face and that is that the Republican people do not approve the broken platform promises, they do not approve of the Taft incapacity, they do not approve of the new lease of life to the privileges of the tariff barons and they do not approve of the throttling of representative government by Cannonism and

The jar that has a mouth wide enough to admit all our best domestic fruits—peaches, pears, etc.—whole is the "Atlas E-Z Seal."

Therefore, the best results in preserving are possible only when you use the Atlas E-Z Seal Jar.

Buy these jars of your dealer before the fruit season comes on and be ready to preserve appearance as well as quality.

they have simply expressed their approval. The New York Sun a supporter of the Taft administration does not seek to deceive itself with any other meaning than that the people disapprove. This paper frankly admits that the next House is sure to be Democratic and last week gave warning to Republicans to save the U. S. Senate from also being Democratic. This condition sends it message to the 20th Congressional district in Pennsylvania to disapprove the things that are by sending to Congress a Democrat.

Ex-Congressman Erdman's Mishap.

Former Congressman Constantine J. Erdman, who represented the Berks-Lehigh district at Washington from 1892 to 1898, is in bed with a broken hip, the fifth of a series of severe misfortunes that has befallen him. He is a graduate of Gettysburg College, class of 1865.

On a recent night there was a family dinner in honor of the ex-congressman's sixty-fourth birthday anniversary, which pleased him greatly. After dinner he got up to pet his daughter, Constance, and thank her for arranging the celebration. As he was walking his left leg, unable to bear his weight, gave way and he collapsed with the leg doubled under him. Two surgeons who worked all night reducing the trouble, found the hip dislocated, a number of ligaments torn and fear a bone split.

While he is pitifully racked in body Mr. Erdman's mind through all his ailments has remained clear as a bell, and he has often directed enterprises which required the best of judgment and advice from his sick bed.

Statue to Mary Jemison.

On Sunday, at Portage, New York, was erected a memorial to Mary Jemison, whose name and fame is one of the heritages of Buchanan Valley, Adams county. Mary Jemison was born on the ocean between Ireland and Philadelphia in 1742. Her parents settled at the head waters of Marsh Creek in the Buchanan Valley. At this point in 1773 her family was massacred by the Indians and Mary Jemison, then twelve years of age was carried off by the Indians. She was adopted by them, grew up among them, was twice married to chiefs, and lived to a great age, dying in 1833 at the age of 91 years. She was faithful to her adopted kin, loved and respected by both the red and white people, and often acted as peacemaker between them. Once when a little more than a girl, she trudged from Ohio to the Genesee Valley, 500 miles through the unbroken forest with her baby on her back, suffering many hardships.

Many years ago it was proposed to erect a statue to her memory and to Bush-Brown, sculptor, was given the order for the statue erected on Sunday. The statue of heroic size, represents a young white woman dressed in Indian costume with her half Indian child upon her back, representing Mary Jemison when she made that great test of courage and endurance on her 500 mile tramp.

ALL OVER THE COUNTY

BIGLERVILLE MAN FALLS FROM SCAFFOLDING AND IS INJURED.

Fairfield Woman in Her 76th Year Shoots Owl on Roof of Her Home.

George Slaybaugh, son of Gates Slaybaugh, of Biglerville, was working on a scaffold at home of Miss Hanna Slaybaugh in Biglerville. Without warning the scaffolding gave way and Mr. Slaybaugh was thrown to the ground and the scaffolding following, fell on him. He is a young man aged about twenty years. In the fall his spine was injured and he sustained in total injuries.

While sitting on her porch during the early evening, Mrs. Samuel Singley of Fairfield, noticed a large owl light on her house roof. She got a gun and shot the bird which measured three feet and six inches from tip to tip. Mrs. Singley is 76 years of age.

A. A. Bievenour of near Bowlder, is one of Adams county's farmers who has demonstrated that there is money in poultry. This summer he has been selling on an average of $25 worth of eggs per week from his flock of 450 hens. One night recently thieves stole about 50 of his best hens.

The fall work and fun has begun in the country, of making cider and boiling apple butter. Snitz parties are being held, corn bakes are taking place and later will come the husking bees and there seems to be general rejoicing over a very fruitful year.

A bald eagle measuring 5 feet from tip to tip of wings, was shot by Harry Tanser of near Mt. Holly Springs. The great bird was seen hovering over Mr. Tanser's fields and barnyard for several hours before it swooped down close enough to permit a shot at it. The farmer was under the impression that he had killed a giant hawk but upon exhibiting it to ornithologists he was informed that it was a bald eagle and a particularly fine specimen.

Dr. Dixon Defends Dairymen.

"Don't let's put too much blame on the farmers," says State Health Commissioner Dixon in discussing the question of a pure milk supply, a problem that is troubling so many municipalities throughout Pennsylvania.

"As an old farmer myself who has led the reapers around the wheat field, swinging a cradle and then in the evening milking my share of the cows I am naturally favorable to the dairy farmer, but it is the close study of actual conditions that convinces me that the first disease germs often, perhaps most frequently, get into the milk after it has passed out of the farmer's control.

"The farmer appreciates more today than ever the necessity of keeping milk clean. He knows that it reaches the market sweet and pure the demand will be increased. He is up against a difficult task to make money out of his milk dairy when he has to constantly buy new cattle to take the place of those that have gone dry, become sick or died

Dairymen's Problems.

"He must produce or purchase food for them, keep up the stable, pay his help, constantly replenish his supply of pans, buckets, etc., and haul this milk over all kinds of roads, through all sorts of weather and then receive for all this 4 or 4½ cents a quart from the dealer.

"The milk often begins to receive pollution on the railroad, when an attendant takes off the lid of a milk can, helps himself to a drink and then replaces the lid, drippings of milk which have reached his lips going back into the can.

"Does this sound like an exaggeration? Let me cite you a case. I remember a baggage-master who once called upon me for medical advice. I found him suffering with pulmonary tuberculosis. When I advised him to drink plenty of milk he informed me that he was drinking a great deal of it. He said he hauled milk in his baggage car and that he was in the habit of drinking out of the lids of the cans.

"At the stations and along the streets the milk dealers often purchase from each other. The purchaser sticks his finger into the milk and then into his mouth to determine the sweetness and then into the second can until he tests as many cans of milk as he proposes purchasing.

Unsanitary Methods

"Only a few days ago a gentleman came into my office to tell me he had just witnessed his own milk man hand a street cleaner a drink of milk contained in the lid of his can and then replace the lid.

"I have witnessed over and over again milk men collect bottles from their customers, poke the index finger in the mouth of one and the thumb in the other to carry the bottles to his wagon. Trusting that they had been properly cleansed by the housewife, the bottles were at once refilled, caps taken out of a pocket which also contained a handkerchief and then these bottles of milk were delivered to the next customers. It is not worth while to enumerate other instances to make my point clear, that is, we must not confine ourselves to the dairy farm in looking for conditions that render milk impure. Our municipalities throughout the state will have to keep their eyes open to the way in which the dealers and others are handling the milk after it has left the farmer's care."

KID STATE OF THE MACHINE

Grim Shows How Republican Misrule Crushes Farmer.

Veto of Educational Code and Dirt Road Jugglery Recent Examples of Bosses' Insolent Snubbing of People.

Wednesday, Sept. 7, was Democratic day at the Farmers' Picnic at the White City, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. The feature of the occasion was a speech by State Senator Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for governor. It is estimated that 10,000 people attended the picnic that day.

Senator Grim was introduced by John Burton, chairman of the Democratic reception committee. In part Mr. Grim said:

"If I can show you that the Democratic party advocates the principles which you advocate and that the Republican party has done those things which they should not have done and let undone those things which they should have done, then you cannot consistently hesitate to support our party if you would be true to your convictions.

"The national and state governments attempt to regulate everything, even prescribing the conditions under which you are born, the conditions of your marriage and the permit of your death and burial. Samuel J. Tilden, in a speech before the New York state Democratic convention in 1871, said that 'The creed of the Democratic party was comprised in two ideas: First, to limit as much as possible all governmental power, enlarging everywhere the domain of individual judgment and action; and secondly, to throw back the governmental powers necessary to be exercised as much as possible upon the states and the localities, approaching in every case the individuals to be affected. The opposite ideas, to meddle with everything properly belonging to the individual and to centralize all governmental powers, express the tendencies of the Republican party.' How true was this prophecy! It is the favorite policy of the Republican party to teach the people to look to Washington as the source of power, instead of the Democratic view, which teaches that the source of power is in the people themselves.

The People Are All Powerful.

"Republicans believe that what is good enough for the majority of this nation is good enough for the locality. Democrats believe that this is their own affair so long as they do not conflict with any larger principles affecting their neighbors. One doctrine teaches that the benefits emanate from the people themselves, and that officials are only their public servants. Democrats believe that all power was originally vested in the people, that they gave to the state some of these powers and that the state granted some of these same powers as were necessary to the general government. "Before the Civil War with few exceptions the affairs of the government and state were administered by the same party which watched at the birth of the nation. Under its guidance was shaped its future destiny. Upon the broad principles of equality its success was assured. The country and state during this time was largely agricultural and the farmers were the great support of the party. 'Equal rights for all, special privileges for none,' was a cardinal principle. Trusts, monopolies and subsidies found no foothold in our legislation. But now how changed! The mere statement of the proposition throws upon the party in power since the war the burden of alarming conditions which have produced such irregularities. Who will deny that special privilege has become a part of our legislative system? Who will deny that we have a condition of privilege whereby we can count our millionaires by the hundreds, and that our protected industries have become powerful enough to throttle the government itself? What have you farmers been doing all the time? How have your interests been cared for during this period of millionaire development? How many of you have become millionaires? Have any man worked harder and earned more than you have? You have been helping this movement for years by your votes, and what have you received in return for building the nation? Have your lands increased in value over fifty years ago? Do your crops bring any more now than they did then? And in return for all these grants of special privilege to the interests, are your taxes any less than they were fifty years ago? They have increased in every instance.

The Tariff a Yoke of Bondage.

"No, gentlemen, this management is not in your interests, and you only add to your burden by supporting the Republican party. There are industries that are directly benefited by this legislation, but it is not yours, and you are therefore paying dearly for it. Take the present tariff for an example. What benefit does the farmer derive from high protective tariff to compensate him for the increase in cost which he must pay for nearly everything he buys? It is for you to say whether you will continue to place the yoke of bondage around your necks so that you may prosper the manufacturers and the business men. You are not let other farmers be crushed likewise? Paid the tariff back again upon the principal article of your business? It is plain that you can never hope for this from the Republican party."

Explaining that the blind partisanship which impels a man to vote the political ticket his father voted is the source of present-day political machine power, Senator Grim continued:

"Mr. Tener says that if elected he will carry out the wise and sagacious policies which have distinguished the administration of the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart.

Proper Schools Denied the Farmer.

"Mr. Tener will speak to you tomorrow of three subjects—schools, roads and health. As to the first, Governor Stuart vetoed the school code which had been prepared with great care by a committee of eminent educators, and in so doing, denied to the children of our state the benefits of a more advanced system of education. If Mr. Tener carries out the principles of Governor Stuart, as he promises, he will do the same thing. This measure had been promised to the people, and while not perfect it was as perfect as it ever will be and should not have been vetoed.

"The greatest difficulty with which you have had to contend in the farm life is the disadvantage under which your children labor. To keep the boys and girls upon the farm we have established the township high school, and today no bright boy or girl upon the farm needs to go to the city for a high school education. But this in turn is altogether checkmated by the business college which sends its agents to visit personally every high school graduate who does not expect to enter a profession and allure him by the promise of a good position after a year's course in business. We need the new code to check this tendency. We need all the school facilities in the country that we can get to hold our young people upon the farm, and the school code contained many provisions to that effect, particularly in the requirements as to agriculture.

Farclike Dirt Road Jugglery.

"It takes a bold man who can defend the party in power for its jugglery with the road appropriation. We divide our road legislation into two branches—stone road legislation and dirt road legislation. For forty years before 1902 we had very little legislation upon the subject. In 1902 we created the state highway department and began the construction of stone roads by the state with local aid, and since then we have invested in round figures about $10,000,000 in stone roads. The present dirt road law was first enacted in 1905 and carried with it an appropriation of 15 per cent to all townships which had abolished the work tax, but the legislature at that session omitted to provide the appropriation, and the legislature of 1907 appropriated $150,000 for 1908, and the legislature of 1909 appropriated $295,000 to pay the 15 per cent appropriation for 1907. The appropriation for 1908 and 1909 have never been paid. In 1907 the legislature increased the per cent to 50 per cent, provided the not more than $20 a mile should be paid, but Governor Stuart for some reason vetoed this measure and out of the appropriation. The last legislature re-enacted the same measure the original bill carrying with it $500,000 for the purpose. It was known that it would require all of the amount to meet the 50 per cent, so that this would be of some real assistance to the farmers of the state. It was equally well known that the money was in the state treasury to meet the appropriation. In spite of this knowledge the city members of the legislature succeeded in cutting down the appropriation to $100,000 and the governor when it reached him cut it another one-half, so that we are face to face with the proposition that the legislature and the governor e $1,000,000 from you farmers of the state, or in other words left you here that much additional tax burden during these two years. I say the farmers of the state, because after all is said and done, it is the farmers' tax that keeps in order the dirt roads. If you believe that Mr. Tener will carry out this policy of Governor Stuart, and that suits you, vote for him."

Mr. Grim criticized the state department of health as being a type of "summary legislation with a vengeance," and added that he will have more to say upon this subject later in the campaign.

Injustice of Present Taxation.

He then branched to the more vital, but more complex subject of taxation, concluding his speech as follows:

"While the government was extending to other interests, governmental support, the farmer was supporting the government, but now that many industries have developed into giant trusts and manufacturers have been able to grow rich and the railroad companies have done nothing in return for franchises except to discriminate against you, you wrong yourself if you do not demand that other industries should share with you the burden of taxation. There never was any intelligent reason given why $100 invested in real estate should pay any more to the support of the government than the same amount invested at interest or in merchandise. The man who invests $3000 in an automobile that goes tearing up your road should pay road tax the same as you do upon your farm that cost you the same amount. The certificate of deposit in bank should pay as much interest as the mortgage upon your farm. Yea, more, for the farmer should not be required to pay a tax on what he owns and on what he owes besides. The corporation pays a five mill tax upon net earnings, but the farmer pays an average of sixteen mill tax upon net earnings but upon net earnings he pays state tax. The 27,000 corporations doing business in this state should pay every dollar of the state tax, leaving all other taxes now collected by the state for local purposes. The farmer for years has not had a fair chance with the man engaged in other enterprises."

A DEMOCRATIC YEAR

Democrats Appreciate Responsibility as Well as Opportunity.

[From the New York World, Sept. 9.]

That this is a Democratic year was proved again yesterday when the Democrats of Connecticut nominated Judge Simeon E. Baldwin for governor. Of Judge Baldwin's eminent qualifications there can be no question.

Next week it is probable that the Democrats of New Jersey will name Woodrow Wilson for governor, and ten days later the Democrats of New York will place in nomination one of several highly acceptable men now urged for the governorship. Ohio Democrats already have a national figure in the field in the person of Judson Harmon.

Thus in the ability and character of the men that they present for leadership Democrats are revealing appreciation of responsibility as well as of opportunity. The other day Vermont established the fact that one Republican can out of every four would not vote. Next Monday, no doubt, Maine will show the same dissatisfaction, and the election of a Democratic governor is possible. In November a like condition of affairs will give the Democrats a sweeping victory throughout the country, with control of the house and an increased representation in the United States senate. On the morning of Nov. 5 the American people will be astonished at the proportions of this Democratic triumph.

These achievements are to be brought about, as the World has said, by Republicans as well as by Democrats. Nominating their best men everywhere, Democrats are making it easy for Republicans to participate directly or indirectly in the great uprising.

The Absolutely Essential.

Nay, Theodore, nay. You may not be a good Republican. Indeed, we could hardly call you such. But neither are you, for all your Democratic preaching, a good Democrat. In order to make sure of reform we shall have to get a change of parties. The next president of the United States must be a Democrat. We are giving it to you straight, old man, "must" be!—News Item.

While the Democrats and some of the Republicans on the Ballinger investigating committee were attending to business at St. Paul, Congressman Martin E. Olmsted was patching up his fences by making a political speech in his district near Harrisburg. Isn't it about time that Pennsylvania be represented at Washington by men who serve the people first and themselves and "the interests" last?

One way to help the Republican machine in its efforts to keep its grip on Pennsylvania is to fail to be registered. Voting is then impossible under the law. Electors in third class cities have two more days in which to be registered—Tuesday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 22. Registration last fall, last winter or last spring has expired.

It is rumored in gang circles that one of the first measures to be passed next winter, should the Penrose crowd be in control, will be the "Stuart state highway bill," which the present governor vetoed last year. Can you imagine anyone except Jim McNichol getting the contract?

No one is a Christian who hasn't been baptized. No man in a Pennsylvania city is a voter who hasn't been registered in person. Tuesday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 22, are the remaining registration days in third class cities, which means every city except Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Scranton.

Any elector who is twenty-two years old or more cannot vote in November unless he shall have paid a state or county tax within the past two years. Such taxes must be paid not later than Oct. 8. If you have not paid a tax since 1908 hunt up your ward or township county tax collector and pay it.

And to All Pennsylvania Republican Congressmen.

Has it ever occurred to the Taftites that one way of keeping Cannon from being speaker is to beat him in his district? Same procedure applies to Dalzell.—Pittsburg Post.

The ballot franchise is the inestimable privilege and duty of the American citizen. Payment of taxes is also a duty, though not much of a privilege. The man who refuses to pay tax cannot vote. Pay your tax before Oct. 8 if you have not already done so since 1908.

Don't Want Roosevelt.

A Beverly, Mass., dispatch tries to make Colonel Roosevelt a Democrat. The G. O. P. may be willing and the Democratic party needs recruits, but it doesn't want to add to its liabilities.—New York Evening Telegram.
